

Inflight cell phone calls will endanger passengers by

- 1) increasing the level of noise related stress.
- 2) reducing the ability of the flight crew to disseminate information to passengers.

During a weather delay last month, we landed to take on more fuel, cell phone useage was allowed during that time, the cabin was total cahos, people will not have the patience to deal with hours of delays, additional security and the constant noise of dozens of loud phone conversations.
thank you for continuing the ban.